
Moab Utah Nov 16-23 2024

- Arches National Park
- Canyonlands National Park
- Dead Horse State Park

Arches National Park

00000000
00000000
00000000
00000000

- Our Airbnb in Moab

Arizona Department of Transportation

Arizona Department of Transportation

Broken Arch Trail

The archway's rocky terrain—yes, like this trail—is not for the faint of heart.

Many desert animals are glad to open their wings by soaring and swooping through the air, seeking out water.
If you do spot a bird, maintain a safe and legal distance for your protection and theirs.

Wildlife of Arches

Broken Arch Trail Map

Trail Type:
This trail is a moderate hike. It is a loop that starts at the Broken Arch trailhead and ends at the same point. The trail is paved and is suitable for all types of hikers.

Trail Stats:
Length: 1.5 miles (2.4 km)
Elevation: 4,000 ft (1,219 m)
Difficulty: Moderate

Be Prepared:
The trail is a moderate hike. It is a loop that starts at the Broken Arch trailhead and ends at the same point. The trail is paved
and is suitable for all types of hikers.

Dead Horse State Park

Arches National Park

National Park Service
U.S. Department of the Interior

Park Avenue Trail

Stroll down this boulevard of rock and let your imagination loose. Park Avenue Trail is a moderate hike through a soaring rock "skyline" of massive fins and curiously carved towers.

People love to name things. Names given to some features here include Queen Nefertiti, Queen Victoria, and Sausage Rock (a.k.a. The Corndog). What names does your imagination suggest?

Know Before You Go

Trail Data
Length: 1.8 miles (3.2 km) round
Elevation Change: 322 feet (98 m)
Time: 1 hour

Trail Type
Near the end of the trail, watch puzzles that might have tiny creatures in them. Please avoid touching or walking through the potholes, either when wet or dry to protect these unique habitats.

Be Prepared!
You can make this a one-way, downhill-only hike by adding your group to pick you up at Cathouse Towers Viewpoint.
Rounding Slight: please return safely along the trail and not by walking up the park road.

Make No Marks
Carving, scratching, or chipping marks onto rocks causes irreversible damage. Preserve the natural beauty of the rock for others to enjoy.

